ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills and safety Damar Hamlin have agreed on a one-year contract, keeping the unrestricted free agent off the market. Hamlin started in 14 games last year, one season after going into cardiac arrest during a game. He will compete with second-year player Cole Bishop to stay in the starting lineup opposite returning veteran Taylor Rapp. Hamlin had two interceptions and 89 tackles for the Bills last season. He was limited to two games in the 2023 season, following his near-death experience.

He has started 27 games and played in 48 games over four seasons with the Bills, who drafted the former Pittsburgh star in the sixth round in 2021.

The five-time defending AFC East champions made one of the bigger splashes in NFL free agency, adding edge rusher Joey Bosa with a one-year, $12.6 million agreement. Bosa is joining the Bills after they cut Von Miller to free up salalaw has been criticized by the Kentucky League of Women Voters, along with other legislative maneuvers that the League says exclude the public from participation in the legislative process. Lawmakers have argued “shell” bills give them more time to work on legislation and advance it beyond the deadline to file bills each legislative session.

Nemes, the bill’s sponsor, dismissed Democratic concerns about the public not having notice, saying Republicans have been talking about the idea of adding further incremental reductions to the income tax rate for years.

“We started talking about this as soon as Republicans started taking over in 2017,” Nemes said. “This isn’t coming out of the blue.”

Andrew McNeill, president of the think tank Kentucky Forum for Rights, Economics and Education focused on free-market policies, supports the premise of adding more flexibility to how much the legislature can reduce the state’s income tax rate.

He said his understanding of the push toward reducing the state’s income tax rate is that spending on state corrections and Medicaid could make it harder to further reduce income taxes under the current framework that only allows half-percent reductions. He said adding more flexibility in reducing the income tax rate is “a perfectly reasonable thing to do.”
