

Lukas looks to ‘turn the page’ on American Promise

BY STEPHEN WHYNO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — American Promise got cut off at the start of the Kentucky Derby, then couldn't get the room to squeeze between horses down the stretch. It added up to a 16th-place finish.

“He’s a big horse,” trainer D. Wayne Lukas said. “He can’t stop and start like that. It just won’t work.”

Lukas is hoping things will work out better in the Preakness Stakes this Saturday, bringing American Promise back to race two weeks after the troubled trip in the Derby. No one has saddled more horses in the second leg of the Triple Crown than the 89-year-old Hall of Famer, who is looking to become the first to win the Preakness back to back since good friend Bob Baffert in 2001 and '02.

“When you have a trip that you could analyze and overanalyze or whatever you want to do, I turn the page and concentrate on this here and what we can get done,” Lukas said Tuesday after overseeing American Promise jog a couple of miles in the rain at Pimlico Race Course. “He did really well. He had good energy and everything.”

American Promise is set to be Lukas’ 49th Preakness horse over 34 renditions of the race since winning his first try back in 1980 with Codex. If American Promise gets the job done, it will give Lukas an eighth Preakness victory and tie Baffert for the record.

Opening at odds of 15-1 — third-longest in the field of nine — he’s a long shot to do so. But a deluge of rain this week could factor in, like the muddy track did at Churchill Downs when Sovereignty outdueled Journalism, who is the Preakness favorite with the Derby winner not running.

Lukas said Journalism “jumps off the page” and is a worthwhile favorite, but he has reason to believe American Promise could thrive with room to run, even if the surface is a little sloppy.

“I got a hunch that he’ll be able to manage it,” Lukas said.

a barn by himself this week at Pimlico because he will soon be returning to England, where he was born in 2022. But rather than being an international entrant in the Preakness, the colt is actually more American than British-bred.
