PHARMACY

volume of customers, which will allow us to directly address concerns from the customers. And we can also provide a listening ear. That’s huge in healthcare, and we’re going to take pride by providing that type of experience.” And, in keeping with the theme of focusing on patient care and personal relationships, Bailey is offering customers a chance to get to know him and Morgan before the store opens on Sept. 1. “We’re planning a Friends and Family Day at the end of August,” Bailey said.

In addition to the Friends and Family Day, Bailey will be offering a chance for McLean County residents to stop into the pharmacy, ask questions and supply their information, such as specific medications that they take or insurance information, to help make opening day flow better and to make sure that the pharmacy has needed medication stocked for patients.

Residents will be able to swing by the pharmacy from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 28.

“There’s no obligation for them to get prescriptions here. We just want to make it where, if you do need our help, you’re already in our system from day one, so there’s no standing in line and having to provide your information, along with the prescription before we can fill it. If you’re already in the system, that’s the biggest step out of the way,” Bailey said.

In addition to acting as a time for customers to provide information, residents who provide their information to the pharmacy for a chance to win a Yeti cooler. Bailey stressed that this doesn’t obligate the patient to get their prescriptions at Calhoun Pharmacy, but it allows him to better prepare to accommodate the community. Bailey also mentioned that customers are going to be able to transfer their prescriptions to Calhoun Pharmacy via the company’s website ahead of opening day.

“We’re working on our website, and it should be ready to go public within the next few weeks, plenty of time before we open,” he said. “There will be a form on the website to allow patients to transfer their prescriptions to us. We won’t execute the transfers until Sept. 1. This will help us make sure that we have the right medications for the community. That’s one of the biggest frustrations people have at a pharmacy. They’ll get a text and say a medication is in stock, but it’s not when they arrive. I carry a lot of pride in sticking to my word and when I promise or guarantee something, I want to make sure I’m able to execute that. Having all that data is really going to help us out. I can look at reports and see the most popular medications, but if someone needs a drug that’s not on that list, this is a great opportunity for them to be able to provide us with their medication needs.”

Bailey also plans to spend the first few hours on opening day just talking and meeting members of the community. A ribbon cutting is planned for 9 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 1, and he wants to be able to welcome to community to the pharmacy and allow patients to get to know him and Parker.

While the pharmacy will be able to provide prescription medication, Bailey also plans to have an area of the shop devoted to testing for viruses such as the flu, strep and RSV.

“Also, we’re going to be able to do a lot of hormone testing, like testing cortisol levels or testosterone levels. We can provide the full gamut of testing based on the needs of the community,” he said. “Once we get a feel of what the community wants, we can always alter our testing selection to satisfy their needs. And we’ll also eventually offer some vaccines. I’m working on getting Morgan trained to provide vaccines, and then the two of us can also help with things like injectable B12 for patients that might be hesitant to inject themselves.”

Those interested in following the pharmacy’s progress, along with receiving updates and announcements, can follow Calhoun Pharmacy on Facebook.
