SPECIAL TO THE CKNJ

Zachariah Lawson says he is excited about serving the growing student body at Lindsey Wilson University.

A senior, Lawson is president of the Lindsey Wilson Student Government Association, the second year in a row students have elected him to the position. That also makes him the first SGA president in the first year of Lindsey Wilson University.

Lawson, who is an English major from Williamsburg, said he's interested in making history by leaving his mark on the university after he graduates in May.

"It's super exciting to know that the student body trusts me to do this, not only a first time but a second time," said Lawson, who also serves as the student representative on the Lindsey Wilson Board of Trustees. "This year is even more special with it being the first year of Lindsey Wil-is a four-member cabinet: Vice President Sabrina Ruiz of Louisville, a theatre and arts administration Chief of Staff Jordan Roberts of Liberty, a criminal justice major; Treasurer Jaden Latiola of Radcliff, a nursing major; and Director of Campus Outreach Whitley Gibson of Edmonton, a human services and counseling major.

The cabinet works with members of the SGA Senate, who represent various classes and student organizations.

The real key is the cabinet, they're the ones that really run things and get things done," Lawson said.

Lawson's priorities this school year include continuing
